The musical score shows a staff with five horizontal lines. On the first line, there is a grey dot at the beginning. Above it, a diamond-shaped note head is positioned above the first vertical bar. The second vertical bar contains a small grey diamond. The third vertical bar has a grey cross. The fourth vertical bar has a grey dot. The fifth vertical bar has a grey cross. A vertical line connects the diamond on the first bar to the diamond on the second bar. Another vertical line connects the cross on the second bar to the cross on the third bar. A vertical line connects the dot on the third bar to the dot on the fourth bar. A vertical line connects the cross on the fourth bar to the cross on the fifth bar. To the right of the fifth bar is a double bar line. After the double bar line, there is a black dot on the second line. Below the staff, there is a number '2' under the first vertical bar, a '4' under the second, and a '2' under the third.

A musical score for a single melodic line. The score consists of five horizontal staff lines. The first measure contains two dots: one on the second line and one on the fourth line. The second measure contains three dots: one on the second line, one on the third line, and a bracketed group of three dots on the fourth line labeled with the brace symbol {3}. The third measure contains a single dot on the third line. The fourth measure contains two dots: one on the second line and one on the fourth line. The fifth measure contains three dots: one on the second line, one on the third line, and a bracketed group of two dots on the fourth line labeled with the brace symbol {2}.

A musical score page showing measures 6'24'' through 3. The page features five staves of music. In measure 6'24'', there is a single black dot on the second staff. In measure 3, there are two black dots on the fourth staff. The page number [3] is centered at the bottom, and the measure number 3 is at the far right.
